

1887: New York Mineralogical Club field trip, Harlem Ship Canal, NYC. Photo by J. Räsch (from a slide belonging to James G. Manchester).

1888: Marble Quarry, Tuckahoe, Westchester County, NY. Photo by W. G. Levison (from a slide belonging to James G. Manchester).

1891: New York Mineralogical Club field trip, O'Rourke's Trap Rock Quarry, West Orange, NJ. Photo by Frederick Kato (from a slide belonging to James G. Manchester).

1893: Carpenter's quarry, Fort Lee, NJ, Palisades above quarry – looking north (from a slide belonging to James G. Manchester).

1893: New York Mineralogical Club field trip, Penitentiary Rock, Snake Hill, NJ (from a slide belonging to James G. Manchester).

1900: Joint field trip of the New York Mineralogical Club and Department of Mineralogy of Brooklyn Institute to serpentine locality, Portchester, NY. Photo by W.G. Levison (from a slide belonging to James G. Manchester)

1901: Looking up Broadway from 155th Street during subway construction (from a slide belonging to James G. Manchester).

1901: Riverside Drive between 92nd and 93rd Streets, Manhattan.
Photo by W.G. Levison (from a slide belonging to James G.
Manchester).

1911: Excavation at 207th and Broadway, Manhattan (from a slide belonging to James G. Manchester).

